TABLE OF CONTENTS

Section	Which Section Is For You?
01 - Identify Your Problem	Not sure what's holding your English back? Find out whether your main problem is translation, hesitation, grammar, vocabulary, or confidence.
02 - Think in English	Do you translate in your head before speaking? Learn how to reduce mental translation and form simple thoughts directly in English.
03 - Speak Without Getting Stuck	Do you know what to say but get stuck while speaking? Learn sentence starters, pauses, chunks, and connectors to keep your speech moving.
04 - Sound Natural & Confident	Does your English sound correct but feel unnatural? Learn contractions, reactions, small talk, and natural stress to sound more conversational.
05 - Grammar Mistakes to Fix	Do you keep making the same grammar mistakes? Spot common mistake patterns and learn the corrections you actually need.
06 - Redundant Phrases to Drop	Do you use extra words when speaking? Remove unnecessary phrases that make your English longer without making it clearer.
07 - Formal Phrases to Fix	Does your English sound too formal or textbook-like? Learn more natural ways to speak in conversations, calls, and chats.
08 - Everyday Sentence Upgrades	Do you struggle to find natural everyday expressions? Build a useful bank of phrases you can use in real conversations.
09 - Secret Techniques (Interviews & Calls)	Don't know what to say in interviews, calls, or work situations? Learn practical ways to clarify, buy time, give updates, and respond professionally.
10 - Mindset (Practice & Real Life)	Understand the techniques but still feel afraid to speak? Turn them into habits and become more comfortable speaking without waiting for perfect English.

1. Identify Your Problem

Before you start, figure out what is making English difficult for you.

You don't need to fix everything at once. First, notice the problem that keeps showing up when you speak.

What's Making Speaking Difficult?

- I know what I want to say, but I translate it from my first language.
- I know the words, but I get stuck while speaking.
- I speak, but my English sounds too formal.
- I make the same grammar mistakes again and again.
- I use too many unnecessary words.
- I rely on basic expressions like “very good” or “very tired.”
- I panic when I make a mistake.

Choose the one that happens most often. That's the problem you should work on first.

You can work on the others later. The goal is not to fix everything in one day. It's to make speaking a little easier, one problem at a time.

Quick Win: You don't need a perfect starting point. You just need to know what to work on first.

---

2. Think in English

The core problem: You think in your first language, translate it, and then speak. That extra step can make you slower and more hesitant.

The goal is not to stop thinking in your first language completely. It's to get better at building simple thoughts directly in English.

Fix 1 - Stop Translating Every Sentence

Instead of planning a sentence in your first language and translating it word by word, try to build the thought directly in simple English.

- “Mujhe bahut bhookh lagi hai” → “I'm starving.”
- “Uska mood off hai” → “He's in a bad mood.”
- “Main thodi der ke liye bahar ja raha hoon” → “I'll be out for a bit.”

You don't need to translate every word. You need to express the meaning.

Fix 2 - The 2–3 Word Start

Don't plan the whole sentence before you speak. Grab two or three useful words and start talking.

- tired + leave + early → “I'm tired. Can I leave early?”
- late + traffic + sorry → “Sorry, traffic was bad.”

Once you start, the rest of the sentence often becomes easier.

Fix 3 - Forgot a Word? Describe It, Don't Stop

You don't need to know every word to keep a conversation going.

- Forgot renew → “I need to make my passport valid again.”
- Forgot colleague → “The person I work with.”
- Forgot postpone → “Can we move the meeting to a later day?”

The goal is to keep communicating, even when a word doesn't come to mind.

Fix 4 - Narrate Your Day

Pick five minutes while cooking, walking, or commuting. Silently describe what you're doing in simple English.

- “I need to boil the water first.”
- “This traffic is so slow today.”

No audience needed. Just practice putting thoughts into English.

Practice: Describe umbrella, refund, and nervous without using the words themselves.

Quick Win: A simple sentence said out loud beats a perfect one stuck in your head.

---

3. Speak Without Getting Stuck

Getting stuck usually isn't because you don't know enough English. It's often because you don't know how to keep going when you need a moment to think.

The goal is not to speak perfectly without pauses. It's to keep the conversation moving even when you need time to think, build a sentence, or remember a word.

Fix 1: Use Sentence Starters

Keep a few ready so you're not starting from zero every time.

- “Honestly, I think...”
- “The thing is...”
- “To be fair...”
- “From what I understand...”
- “I was thinking...”

Fix 2: Use Fillers Naturally

A short pause is not a failure. Small fillers can give you a moment to think while keeping the conversation natural.

- “Um...”
- “Let me think...”
- “You know...”
- “So, basically...”
- “Actually...”

Don't force a filler into every sentence. A natural silent pause works too.

Fix 3: Chunk Your Sentences

Don't build a long sentence all at once. Say it in pieces and keep moving.

Instead of planning:

> “I was thinking that maybe we could go to the market later if you're free.”

Try:

> “I was thinking...”
> “Maybe we could go to the market...”
> “Later...”
> “If you're free.”

Useful blocks:

- “I was thinking...” + “that we could...” + “later today”
- “Do you want to...” + “grab something...” + “before we leave”

Fix 4: Link Your Ideas

Short sentences are fine, but connectors help them flow.

Useful connectors:

because · so · but · although · also · even though · which means · on top of that

- “I wanted to go, but it was raining.”
- “I was tired, so I went home early.”

Practice: Talk about your weekend for one minute. Use two natural pauses and one connector.

Quick Win: Say one piece. Then add the next. You don't need the ending before you start.

---

4. Sound Natural & Confident

Knowing English is one thing. Sounding comfortable while using it is another.

You don't need to use complicated words or speak perfectly. Small changes in how you speak can make your English sound more natural and confident.

Fix 1: Use Contractions in Casual Speech

Contractions are normal in everyday conversation.

- “I am not sure.” → “I'm not sure.”
- “They have already left.” → “They've already left.”

You don't need to avoid full forms, but contractions are common in everyday conversation.

Fix 2: React First, Explain After

Conversations often move faster when you respond briefly before giving your full explanation.

Agreement

- “Exactly.”
- “Totally.”
- “For sure.”

Disagreement

- “Not really.”
- “I don't think so.”

Surprise

- “No way!”
- “Seriously?”

Fix 3: Use the Small Talk Formula

A simple pattern can make small talk easier:

Greeting → Comment or question → Bounce it back

- “Hey, how was your weekend?”
- “Pretty relaxing. How about you?”
- “Same, I needed the rest.”

Fix 4: Agree or Disagree Without Sounding Rude

Acknowledge the other person's point, then add your own view.

- “I see what you mean, but I think...”
- “That's a fair point, although...”

Fix 5: Use Stress to Change Meaning

The same sentence can mean different things depending on which word you stress.

- I didn't say he stole it. (Someone else said it.)
- I didn't say he stole it. (I never said that.)
- I didn't say he stole it. (Maybe someone else did.)
- I didn't say he stole it. (Maybe someone else did.)
- I didn't say he stole it. (Maybe he borrowed it.)

Practice: Say “I never said that” three times, stressing a different word each time.

Quick Win: Don't give every word the same weight. Stress the part that matters.

---

5. Grammar Mistakes to Fix

Small grammar mistakes can make you pause, second-guess yourself, or repeat phrases that don't sound natural.

The goal isn't to memorise every grammar rule. It's to notice common mistakes and replace them with the version you'll actually use in everyday English.

Common Mistakes and Better Alternatives

Common phrasing	Better
I am agree with you	I agree with you
She is having two kids. (meaning she has two children)	She has two kids.
He don't like it	He doesn't like it
Can you explain me this?	Can you explain this to me?
I am reaching in 10 minutes.	I'll be there in 10 minutes.
She was knowing the answer	She knew the answer
I didn't ate	I didn't eat
I am from since morning here	I've been here since morning
It's raining since morning	It's been raining since morning
I am having headache	I have a headache
We are here since 2 years	We've been here for 2 years
Are you understanding?	Do you understand?

A small note: Some phrases, such as “I am not getting it,” can be used in certain contexts. The alternatives above are simply more natural for the meanings intended here.

Practice: Pick three mistakes from the table and make one new sentence with each corrected version.

Quick Win: Read this list once a week until the common corrections start sounding natural to your own ear.

---

6. Redundant Phrases to Drop

Not every phrase in the left column is grammatically wrong. Some are simply longer than necessary, or a shorter alternative sounds more natural in everyday English.

Longer phrasing	Simpler alternative
Discuss about the plan	Discuss the plan
Repeat again	Repeat / Say it again
Return back	Return
Enter into the room	Enter the room
Free gift	Gift (when “free” adds no useful meaning)
Each and every	Each / Every
Reply back	Reply
Add on more	Add more
Combine together	Combine
Basic fundamentals	Fundamentals
End result	Result
Past history	History
True fact	Fact

Quick Win: If removing the extra word changes nothing, you can usually drop it.

7. Formal Phrases to Fix

Formal English isn't wrong. But in everyday conversations, calls, and chats, simpler wording often sounds more natural.

More formal	More natural in everyday conversation
I would like to inform you that...	Just wanted to let you know...
Kindly revert at the earliest.	Please get back to me soon.
I am in receipt of your message.	Got your message.
This is to inform you that...	Just so you know...
I shall be obliged.	I'd appreciate it.
With reference to the above...	About what I mentioned...
I am extremely grateful.	Thanks so much.
Please find attached herewith.	I've attached...
I would request you to...	Could you please...?
I hereby confirm...	Confirming that...
Please be informed that...	Just a heads-up...
It is my humble opinion...	I think...

Quick Win: Formal English is useful in the right setting. But when you're chatting, speaking on a call, or having a casual conversation, simpler wording often makes you sound more natural.

8. Everyday Sentence Upgrades

You don't need to replace every basic expression. The goal is to build a small bank of alternatives that you genuinely like and can use comfortably.

Basic	A more natural alternative
I am very happy	I'm thrilled
I am very tired	I'm beat
It was very good	It was awesome
It was very bad	It was rough
I am very hungry	I'm starving
That is very easy	That's a piece of cake
I am very confused	I'm lost
That is very expensive	That's pricey
I am very busy	I'm slammed
That is very boring	That's dull
I am very nervous	I'm on edge
That is very interesting	That's fascinating
I am very sure	I'm positive
That is very difficult	That's tough
I am very excited	I'm pumped

A small note: These alternatives are not always interchangeable. Some are more informal, stronger, or more expressive than the original.

Practice: Upgrade these three out loud:

- “I'm very hungry.”
- “The movie was very good.”
- “I'm very busy today.”

Quick Win: Build a small bank of five or six upgrades you genuinely like. Don't try to replace every “very.”

---

9. Secret Techniques - Interviews & Calls

Interviews and phone calls can feel harder because you have less time to think and fewer chances to restart your sentence.

The goal is not to memorise full scripts. It's to have a few simple structures ready so you can respond clearly without getting stuck.

Technique 1: Use Phone Openers

Start the call clearly instead of trying to think of the perfect opening.

- “Hi, this is [Name] calling about...”
- “Is this a good time to talk?”
- “I'll follow up over email.”

Technique 2: Use Interview Openers

These give you a second to think without sounding unprepared.

- “Sure. Currently, I'm [role/study], and I've been focused on...”
- “That's a good question. Let me think about that for a second.”

Technique 3: Use the Work Update Formula

What's done → What's left → When it'll be ready

> “I've finished the first section. I just need to review the second part. It should be done by tomorrow.”

Technique 4: Keep Useful Lines Ready

- “Just a quick update. I'm almost done with this.”
- “Do you have a minute? I'm stuck on something.”
- “Just following up on this. Any update?”

Technique 5: Ask for Clarification Instead of Guessing

If you don't understand something, it's better to ask than pretend you understood.

- “Sorry, could you say that again?”
- “What do you mean by that?”
- “Just to make sure I understood, you mean...?”

Technique 6: Confirm and Continue

Repeat what you understood and let the other person confirm.

> “So you're saying we should send it by Friday, right?”

Practice: Prepare a two-sentence answer to “Tell me about yourself” using one of the interview openers above.

Quick Win: A short pause and a clear structure make you sound composed, not unsure.

---

10. Mindset (Practice & Real Life)

The Real Way to Improve

There are tricks that can make English easier.

They can help you find better words, build sentences faster, and handle common speaking problems.

But no trick can replace actual practice.

If you want to speak English more comfortably, you have to speak it. Talk to peopl,. Make mistakes, Correct yourself and Try again.

It doesn't matter if your English is perfect or not.

Every time you speak, you get another chance to improve.

You might say something wrong today. Tomorrow, you may remember the correction. After saying it a few more times, it starts to feel natural.

That's how speaking improves. Not by waiting until your English is perfect, but by using it again and again.

Say It, Fix It, Move On

A mistake doesn't have to stop the conversation.

- “I go... I mean, I went there yesterday.”
- “She don't... doesn't, sorry. She doesn't like it.”

No long apology. No restarting the whole sentence.

Correct it and keep going.

Prepare for Your Repeat Situations

Everyday conversations repeat more than you think. Have two lines ready for the situations you face often.

Shop / Restaurant

- “Excuse me, this isn't quite what I ordered.”
- “Could I get this exchanged or refunded?”

Doctor

- “I've been having this problem for about [time].”
- “Is this something I should be worried about?”

Meeting

- “Just to align, the plan is [X], correct?”
- “Let's circle back on this by [date].”

The Real Goal

The goal isn't to use every trick in this guide.

The goal is to speak more easily and with less hesitation.

Use the techniques when they help. But keep speaking, even when your English isn't perfect.

The more you use English in real conversations, the more naturally it starts to come to you.